Niigata Port: A Hub on the Sea of Japan
2014

Port of Niigata, West Port

In addition to being the point of embarkation for the Sado Ferry and the Shin Nihonkai Ferry, the West Port Port District is home to the Bandajima Building which houses the consulates of the Russian Federation and the Republic of Korea, as well as the Toki Messe Niigata Convention Center, the only international convention center on Honshu's Japan Sea Coast.

Transportation access to the Port of Niigata

The Port of Niigata is at the head of an integrated, far-reaching system of standardized, high-speed expressways, including immediate on-access to the major Hokuriku, Kan'etsu, and Ban'etsu Freeway arteries. The result is rapid, efficient port access from anywhere within Niigata Prefecture, as well as the Tohoku, Kanto, and Hokuriku regions. Furthermore, with the Joetsu Shinkansen Line and Niigata Airport's regularly scheduled flight connections to major cities both within and outside of Japan, Niigata now plays a large role in Northeast Asia as a freight and passenger transit center.

Port of Niigata, East Port

Located in a coastal industrial zone housing various businesses, the East Port continues to develop as an international container terminal handling diverse types of cargo and freight, including finished automobiles, liquid natural gas, timber, cereals, and others. Regularly scheduled container shipping routes to China, South Korea and Southeast Asia from the west wharf container terminal are thoroughly developed. And with the expansion of the container yard, the port aims to further improve its functionality and plays an enormous role as the largest base port on the Sea of Japan side of Honshu. Further, the Port of Niigata's trade-related facilities, customs, immigration, quarantine, etc. are all efficiently arranged to achieve swift port clearance times.

Niigata East Port Container Terminal

The Niigata World Trade Terminal (N-WTT) was assigned management of port operations, and was privatized in April, 2014. We hope to make the port even more convenient by improving and strengthening facilities through expansion projects.

You can see real-time information on the container terminal on the N-WTT and NCTC homepages (Japanese text only)
